

I am writing to express my feelings about low power FM stations. I have found them to be VERY important to me because they relate to me on a local level, and you just can't get that with non-local stations. I have been lucky in that for most of the past 20 years I have been living in areas where there are low power FM stations. They cover local news, happenings, issues and talent that simply don't and won't get covered on larger stations. These low power FM stations are very important for bringing people together and creating community; larger stations just can't do that. We need more community, not less. Please allow the expansion of local, low power FM stations.
